

1- My heart for you is a dwelling place and a home
And on it in love, is from you a crown
O masters by whom all hardships are removed Souls yearn for you forever
And their connection to you is their perfume and wine

2 - Your tastes in love have captured my heart
By which, in the ocean of love, is to follow after you
How long the lover has suffered from your departure
The hearts of your lovers are missing you
And in the pleasure of meeting you they find their rest

3 - Why are the blamers rebuking me for my love?
They have destroyed my soul with their blame
They should have been kind
Because lovers always try to cover their love
But their passion exposes them

4. Their loyalty to the beloved has prevented them from revealing their secrets
As loyalty is an integral part in the laws of love
This is why their banner has risen high amongst the people of love
Such is the result of those who exposed their secret - their blood is to be shed

5- If they once tell a secret, they hint to it
Making people believe that their love is an illusion
But when they look, their eyes tell what they are hiding
And when they speak the raining tears reveal their secret

6- How often they speak, but never make things understood
Although they are given deep understanding of all the truths
When they speak, they go East and West away from their own secrets
But signs of illness, as a result of love, have already appeared on them
Which clarify the obscure matter of their love

7. The lover should not demand anything from the beloved
The beloved who connects and comes to the lover is out of generosity
However, we have hopes in you turning to us
And humbling ourselves is obligatory on ourselves towards you
But not on you, the beloved, towards us

8. The ear of your lover is eagerly waiting for your command
And the members of his body are moving with your remembrance
He has hopes in you out of your bounty, that you turn to him with kindness
Because his soul is yearning for you, and his eye waiting for a look at you

9. The lover is about to annihilate in your love
Rather, his being has melted in you and has been negated
You are the people of kindness and the people who turn with loyalty
So come back to us with the light of connection in the darkness of remoteness, because remoteness is night your connection is the morning

10. Since I fell in love with them, I have become attributed to them,
I sought them but in reality, I am sought by them
The true lover is the one who is loved by his beloved
They loved him, he loved them,
So their hearts have in its light the niche and the lamp

11. They persisted in their travel and did not get delayed in travelling in their road
They swayed in ecstasy while drinking from the wine of love
They knew that their beloved is with them in the convoy
So they enjoyed that and time was good with the closeness of their beloved
The drink has become pure and the glasses are thin

12. Anyone who loves, should have a sign that tells he is in love
And when he travels through the way to Allah with love, he's provided with safety
The lover should never complain about the beloved, nor be blamed Especially when on the horizon of connection the dawn of the beloved appears

13. Because of remoteness and distance, the strength has gone
And because of the heat of love, the body has become lean
O you who is blaming me because I am expressing my love Lovers have committed no sin if they are overwhelmed by their love and they divulge their secret of love

14. Their souls rose up to their goals with a lot of strength
Like bees going around their queen
They made their souls cheap, and sacrificed them in the course of their love

They gave them souls; they were not stingy to hold them back
When they knew that generosity in love is a great win

15. The Most Merciful granted them power from Him and established them as models for humanity to follow
And honoured them with closeness to Him
And the caller of the truth called upon them
So they became happy with that call and they answered

16. The land of Layla (their beloved) is their land
In that land, their sujūd and their rukū' became enjoyable
Whenever they walk, their destination is the beloved
They wrote on the ships of loyalty with the oceans of their tears
And their sailor was their yearning

17. They stood at his threshold with the attribute of poverty
They sought refuge with him, and humiliated themselves to his sublimity
He protected them and called them to his presence
By Allah I swear they did not seek to stand at his door until they were called and they were given the key

18. The voice of the beloved is the cure for their cry
The saliva of the beloved extinguishes the flames of their love
They do not desire but to get their full portion
They do not enjoy the mention of anyone other than their beloved for the rest of their life; this is why all their times are times of joy

19. They have not reached, but after they died
And were absent from, and missed their own beings
And after they left their own souls and dispersed
They were present but absent from witnessing their own selves
And when they saw him, they went in a state of ecstasy shouting

20. When the Lord of Majesty saw their humility
He brought them near to Him
He provided them with power and He shaded them
And He moved them to the presence of absoluteness without any restrictions

He annihilated them from them, then the veils of immortality and everlastingness were revealed to them so their souls were just emerged

21. How beautiful my beloved is How pure and fragrant he is, and how moist his rains are
Our Lord praised and revered them
If you're not like them, try to be like them
Because trying to imitate the people of nobility is success
There is success in every attempt to imitate people of salvation

22. My friend, bring me the wine
Rise up for it and bring me the Divine wine of love
Do not bother about those who blame you or forbid it for you
Let me walk into all of its directions because I'm a captive of its makers, its chefs
Because in its taverns the glasses have been distributed

23. It's a wine that's been drunk with righteousness, taqwā,
In the purest tavern with the best company in love and best entourage
It's elixir has been squeezed with extra carefulness from the grapes from the vines of generosity with the jars of righteousness, not a wine that has been made by peasants

24. It's a halal wine, you would wish to taste it
You would pay the most precious thing you have to acquire it
Anyone who smells it will attain felicity and will celebrate
It is the wine of eternal love, it is the utmost hope for any friend to get How beautiful is that wine
